Logistics Executive Group are excited to announce a new partnership with the Council of Supply Chain Management Professionals (CSCMP)

Logistics Executive Group is very proud to announce a new partnership with a fellow industry leader, the Council of Supply Chain Management Professionals (CSCMP). The two entities will share their commitment to deliver state-of-the-art reliable and unparalleled services to the Logistics and Supply Chain industries. Their partnership serves as a testament to their mutual strengths and destined efforts to provide best in class services to their valuable members and clients in the industry on a global platform.

Logistics Executive Group has been dedicated for over a decade to the development and enrichment of their global community of supply chain and logistics professionals. The addition of CSCMP's outstanding global reputation will only strengthen this offering, as the continuing education of its members as sharing of best practices in industry is the cornerstone of CSCMP. CSCMP is the preeminent worldwide professional association dedicated to the advancement and dissemination of research and knowledge on supply chain management. Like Logistics Executive Group, CSCMP has a global reputation with over 8,500 members from 67 countries.

“It is our pleasure to partner with an industry leader such as CSCMP which has a reputation for delivering best in class Supply Chain and Logistics Training and Development globally. This partnership will allow us to enhance our services to the professionals we support, through our joint networks. These training modules and academic courses are unique because unlike most academic offerings, they have a practical connection to industry, based on an appreciation of how actual hands-on work experience can enhance learning. Professionals at all levels from trainee to high level Manager or Executive can undertake further study at any point during their careers. Training offerings are designed to accommodate the demands of full time professional work life. In fact, actual work experience will enrich study outcomes. Career opportunities can be established by networking within an environment that has close ties to industry, by building a closer connection with both academics in the field and other professionals in an open, collegiate environment” – commented Darryl Judd, COO of Logistics Executive Group.

The end to end offering of courses start from quick courses to accredited certification program, degree qualifications and supply chain MBA’s, as follows:

- The quick courses offer immediate, affordable best-in-class training. They consist of 13 modules designed for entry to mid-level professionals.
- CSCMP SCM Essentials (SCME) is an innovative web-based course that covers the fundamentals of supply chain management including supply chain planning, processes, and global operations.
- The SCPro[™] certification is a three-level program through which supply chain professionals can master the complete range of end-to-end global supply chain functions. An industry recognised certification that denotes a comprehensive knowledge and masterful analysis of real world business issues in Supply Chain and Logistics.

“So far the feedback we have had is extremely encouraging. Many of our clients have reported higher staff engagement and retention following their adoption of our training programs. Of course the benefits in learning for professionals are obvious, particularly as today's Supply Chain and Logistics industry is challenging in its complexity and increasingly requiring professional navigation".

"Ultimately CSCMP courses are globally industry, recognised and will show any employer that the candidate truly comprehends how supply chain impacts within an organization.

Each level builds upon the other, with the culmination of the implementation of a real world solution. There is no better experience than that!" commented Darryl Judd in summary.
